

A MORNING AT THE ZOO

1:36'10 Can you hear this singing? As though there was a choir of peculiar birds! This is a very unusual singing for good morning, don't you think?

1:36'20 This yellow-cheeked crested gibbon doesn't resemble a bird at all. His name is Liling and he marks his territory with his song.

1:36'42 This is the rest of the monkey family, who start their day in such a pleasant way. Gibbons' natural habitat is a tropical rainforest. They seem to feel content at Ljubljana ZOO. Males are dark, while females are lighter in colour.

1:37'16 Their singing is extremely vigorous.

1:37'33 Look at this! Liling's wife found a very comfortable armchair.

1:37'53 And this is how the two brothers, the four-year old Mal, and his-two-year old sibling show their affection for each other. When they turn 8, they'll become independent.

1:38'26 The morning concert is over.

1:38'32 Daddy, come down!

1:38'50 There is always time for frolicking...

1:39'00 When gibbons live together, they are closely-knit, gentle and loving families.
