

	Kormak the catthrower
00:00	Once there was a brilliant inventor named Kormakur.
00:06	Kormakur had a cat called Einar.
00:11	One fine day Einar climbed into a big tree outside their house and couldn't get down.
00:20	Now it comes in handy that I'm a brilliant inventor, Kormakur thought when he saw poor Einar. In order to save Einar from the tree, Kormakur built an automatic cat thrower, driven by sun power.
00:36	Kormakur put the cat thrower in the tree and started it. Then he ran into a shelter and waited. When Kormakur had waited for several hours without any progress, he got hungry. He walked slowly

00:54	towards the cat thrower and touched it lightly with the big toe. Suddenly a horrible squeal sounded from the cat thrower and it started to tremble and shake. A big hand popped out, grabbed poor Kormakur and swung him around. Finally, the cat thrower let go and Kormakur was thrown very far.
01:10	When Kormakur got back home several days later, he saw that Einar was still stuck in the tree. What was he supposed to do now?
01:20	Then Kormakur got a brilliant idea.
01:25	Since it was not possible to save Einar from the tree Kormakur simply moved their house up into the tree where they still live happily today.
