

Synops

Europe for Peace

Peace movements of all shapes and sizes burgeoned in the Europe of the early 1980s. They were a reaction to the tense relations between East and West. Beneath the shadow of the nuclear arms race of the Cold War they drew in everyone from housewives to senior academics. We met two of the women who took on the missiles and heads of government in their own individual ways.