

MEETING OF TV YOUTH PROGRAMME EXPERTS

(Ponta Delgada, 12 to 15 November 2005)

EBU CHILDREN'S DOCUMENTARY EXCHANGE 2005

HRT – Croatian Television

„HERE TODAY, GONE TOMMOROW”

The boy Patrick Berger lives in his family's amusement park. His life is constantly changing and he's always moving since the family changes five to sometimes even seven towns in Croatia in one year. They live in a trailer park. Patrick and his brothers have their own trailer, always next to the one where their parents live. Every time he moves, Patrick changes the school. Despite of all this, he is an A-student. He also plays soccer and trains daily. Although he is used to constant moving, he feels bad because he cannot play in his team throughout the year and that's why he would like for the family to settle in one place. The moving also affects his love life: he broke up with a girl who decided that they don't see each other often enough. This is a film about a boy whose life is different from the lives of his friends and peers and about the way he chooses to deal with it.